

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Sasquatch sightings coming to ExpoSure's four Sportsmen's Shows

There will be sightings of the original Northwest outdoorsman, Sasquatch, at all four of ExpoSure's 2023 Sportsmen's Shows. Visit with the 10' tall Sasquatch, or BigFoot, as he is known in other circles, and have your photo taken with him. Learn about the sightings, the mysteries and share your stories with Sasquatch's caretakers at the event, Scot and Hannah Violette of Squatch America. They will be on hand with their informative display, their new intrepid explorer vehicle and Bigfoot memorabilia.

Squatch America combines Scott's and Hannah's expertise in anthropology and sociology research and communication. They are "investigating the unexplained, not explaining the uninvestigated." Their mission is to construct a cultural-behavioral narrative of the hominid species known as "Bigfoot."

Scot, a Native American cultural anthropologist, was led into Bigfoot research through his pictograph-analysis work with the Miwok tribe of Northern California. Hannah, a master social worker and human behavioral researcher, supports this research by identifying behavior patterns common to both Bigfoot and humans. Together they've made unique discoveries, had sightings, and are actively teaching the broader community to conduct field research. They travel nationwide and host community town hall meetings to collect encounter reports which are building their pursued cultural-behavioral narrative.

Scot's work has been prominently featured by Travel Oregon. https://youtu.be/HWTzOr5lh_I
